

Safe Sport: Theory of Change for the B.C. Sport Sector

The Theory of Change outlines the desired sport experience in B.C., one in which all individuals and organizations are equipped and supported by the system to reach the goal of a foundation of safety. It is essential to outline the necessary conditions and outcomes we are seeking in order to develop interventions to achieve that goal.

A British Columbia where everyone has a positive sport experience and the opportunity to reach their full potential viaSport, in partnership with the Ministry of Tourism, Arts and Culture, is committed to leading the program design and implementation through research, sector consultation, and education that put participants and victims first, and support people to respond. This Theory of Change (v2) is a part of our commitment to collaboratively build evidence-based solutions, that moves the sector closer to the desired state, sharing our progress every step of the way.
